DESCRIPTION

Serving as the general contractor, CGT Construction executed the comprehensive renovation of this Washington Square residence, transforming a traditional home into an elevated, high-end masterpiece. The project required a sophisticated balance of architectural design and technical precision, from the structural reconfiguration of legacy living spaces to the integration of new, high-performance building systems. By blending sleek, modern fixtures with intentional textures and custom-layered lighting, we redefined the home as an expansive private sanctuary that emphasizes both structural durability and timeless elegance. Every detail was meticulously crafted to ensure a seamless flow between luxury and function throughout the entire property.
